Executive World's Fair Commission J. K. Gwynne is preparing a circular regarding what Missouri is expected to do at the World's fair and how she is expected to do it. It states that the dedicatory exercises of the fair will take place in Jackson park, Chicago, October 12 next; that immediately thereafter the installation of exhibits will be begun and continued till May 1, 1893, when the doors of the fair will be thrown open to visitors and will con-tinue open till October 31, 1893; that each state and territory is expected to thoroughly individualize itself by an exhibit.

Then follows an explanation of the ereation and appointment of the state World's fair board and the appropria-tion by the Missouri legislature of $150. 000 for the purpose of making a state

All cereals, grasses, forage plants and fibers must be of the crop of the present year, and will be receivable after November 1, next, and must all be in place by April 1, 1893. All crops of a perishable nature, such as melons, fruits, roots and vege-tables, will have to be of the crop of 1893, and a fresh supply will be shipped at stated intervals to replenish the exhibits. A special display of sugar-beets will be made the second and third will be made the second and third weeks of October, 1893. A special dis-play of potatoes will be made during two weeks beginning September 11, 1893. The state's dairy exhibit will be made in the agriculture department The standard color will be June grass-butter. The space applied for in the agricultural department for the Mis-souri exhibit is 200x200 feet. In the live-stock division $20,000 has een set apart by the state to make an exhibit. Only purely-bred stock, produced in the state, will be admitted. The exhibit will be opened on October 24, and will continue till the close of the fair. Cattle will be shown from eptember 11 until the 27th; horses, mules, tacks and tennets, from August June 12 to the 17th; poultry, pigeons and pet stock, from October 18 to the The mining exhibit of the state is to be an exhaustive one. leadership, organization, concentration and continuity of effort, with distinct ends in view not less than clear principles.

Your reserve has been in keeping with your high station in the public regard, your distinguished public service and vour personal dignity. But the danger to the public interests which a failure of the democratic party would involve, seems to me now to require the open arowal of your willingness to submit to any service to which your party and the people may assign you. Many entertain fears that you may decline further public duty, which now heat you can effectably resnove, and your voice will be everywhere board with benefit and effect. I believe your usefulness to the nation may be greater now than ever in the past, to carry to victory the cause of tariff reform, and to restore the blessings of good government to our people; and as your follow-democrat and fellow-citizen I sak you to say to your party and the people that your name may be presented to the national democratic convention as a candidate for its nomination to the praedency, and that you will accept that nomination if the convention shall make it and again undertake the-duties of president if the people shall, as I believe they will, choose you for that office.

Sincarely yours.

Enwans S. Brace.

of your position as my "fellow-democrat and fellow-citizen." and in your relation as a true and trusted friend, you present to me.

If, in answering your question, I might only consider my personal desires and my individual ease and comfort, my response would be promptly made, and without the least recernation or difficulty. But if you are right in supposing that the subject is related to a duty I owe to the country and to my party, a condition exists which makes such private and personal considerations entirely irrelevant. I cantion exists which makes such private and per-sonal considerations entirely irrelevant. I can-not, however, refrain from declaring to you that my experience in the great office of presi-dent of the United States has so impressed mo-with the solemnity of the trust and its awful responsibilities that I cannot bring myself to regard a candidacy for the place as something to be won by personal strife and active self-as-sertion.

regard a candidacy for the place as something to be won by personal strife and active self-assertion.

I have also an idea that the presidency is preeministify the people's office; and I have been sincere in my constant alvocacy of the effective participation in political affairs on the part of all of our citizens. Consequently I believe the people should be heard in the choice of their party candidates, and that they themselves should make nominations, as directly as is own-sistent with open, fair and full party organisation and methods.

I speak of these things solely for the purpose of advising you that my conception of the nature of the presidential office, and my conviction that the voters of our party should be free in the selection of their candidates, preclude the possibility of my leading and pushing a self-aceking canvass for the presidental nomination, even if I had a desire to be again a candidate.

Believing that the complete supremacy of democratic principles means increased national prosperity and the increased happiness of our people, I am earnessty anxions for the success of my party. I am condicant success of my party. I am condicant success is still within our reach, but I believe this is a time for democratic thoughtfulness and deliberation, not only as to candidates, but concerning party action upon questions of immense interest to the patriotic and intelligent voters of the land, who watch for an assurance of safety as the price of their confidence and support.
